

Section on Risk Analysis
Best Contributed Paper Award
Joint Statistical Meetings

Each year the Section on Risk Analysis offers an award for the best contributed paper at the Joint Statistical Meetings in the amount of $100. To be eligible, your abstract must be designated to be reviewed by the Risk Analysis Section when submitting your presentation to the Joint Statistical Meetings. Contributed, as well as, late breaking session presentations will be considered for the award. Your work may be the development of new methodology in risk analysis or the application of existing risk methods in a novel way. Both theory and application are acceptable.

Requirements:

An Official Abstract submission for presentation at the Joint Statistical Meetings must be made with an indication that the abstract be considered by the Section on Risk Analysis. The presentation must be accepted by the Section on Risk Analysis. Contributed and late breaking session presentations are eligible for the award. A committee attending the sessions at the Joint Statistical Meetings will evaluate each of the presentations. The recipient will be selected based on the clarity, media aesthetics and content of their presentation.
